C. OF C. BY-LAWS GIVEN APPROVAL

MEMBERS AT LUNCHEON ADOPT CONSTITUTION; DIRECTORS TO BE NAMED NEXT

ENGINEER SPEAKER

FRANK H. OLMSTED TELLS OF SEWERAGE PROBLEMS; ASKS THOROUGH INQUIRY

Called together for the purpose of passing upon a proposed constitution and by-laws and to hear Frank H. Olmsted, 1431 North Pacific avenue, Glendale, of the firm of Olmsted & Gillelen, sanitary engineers, give an address on the city's sewerage problem, the first general membership meeting of the re-organized Chamber of Commerce was held at noon yesterday in the banquet room of the First Methodist church. About 150 were present.

H. P. Coker, as president of the former Chamber of Commerce, presided over the meeting. The proposed constitution and by-laws, as published in The Evening News last Tuesday, were adopted without material change, after being read and acted upon section by section. With their adoption, it is stated that directors for the Chamber of Commerce will be voted upon this month and the directors elected will select a president and other officials.

Another Luncheon Planned

Jesse Smith, head of the executive committee of citizens which conducted the recent membership drive, assisted in presenting the proposed constitution and by-laws, as did T. A. Stephenson, who is in charge of the re-organization details.

C. C. Cooper, treasurer for the committee, read a financial report, in which he showed how much money has been paid in on memberships and what has been pledged.

Another luncheon for the Chamber of Commerce is planned by the forum committee to be held Tuesday noon, March 1, at the First Methodist church banquet room to hear Dr. Schuller, pastor of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, south, of Los Angeles. He is declared to be an able speaker.

Following the adoption of the constitution and by-laws yesterday, Chairman Coker introduced Mr. Olmsted, who has been employed by the city of Glendale to consult on the sewerage problem, and he made an interesting address on the question in general and, too, as it applies to this city.

Address by F. H. Olmsted

"Fellow members of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce," said Mr. Olmsted in opening his address, "I believe this is the first general membership meeting of this Chamber of Commerce, and I appreciate very much the opportunity of having your

Eugene O. Moder And Family In New Home

Eugene O. Moder of the Farmers & Merchants Bank of Los Angeles has just completed and with his family is now occupying their new home on Hillside Drive in Verdugo Woodlands.

Mr. and Mrs. Moder contemplate making a tip to Switzerland this coming summer with their daughter Hedwig.

Mrs. Nancy A. Jones Is Taken By Death

Mrs. Nancy Ann Jones, aged 62, passed away February 14, at 11.15 a. m., after an illness of several months. She is survived by her husband, Frank R. Jones, of 1421 San Fernando Road, and several children.

Funeral services will be held at the parlors of L. G. Scovern company February 18, at 2 p. m., under the auspices of Carnation Rebekah lodge No. 257. Interment will be in Grand View cemetery.

Work Progresses On Mrs. Boynton's Home

The construction of the hollow tile dwelling of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Boynton on Canada boulevard and Colina Drive is progressing rapidly and the building promises to be among the most attractive of the many new homes in Verdugo Canyon.

What's This? Captain Gets More Pay Than Major? Yes, But Why?

"I'm not anxious to be a major," said Captain Thomas D. Watson last night as the Glendale National Guard company was being mustered into the federal service. "I get $750 a year as captain and if I were promoted, my pay would be only $500—the same as a second lieutenant."

Hope Costs Reduced

Sycamore Canyon road—to be or not to be—is a question J. C. Sherer, city clerk, propounds. Already the city trustees have called for bids on the proposed opening and improvement of the new street in the eastern part of the city, and have rejected them all as too high. Now they are calling for bids again, to be opened February 24, in the hope that road building costs have lowered.

Tax on District

One reason why the trustees have declined to go ahead with the work on Sycamore Canyon Road on account of the cost is the fact that, for the first time locally, 60 per cent of the tax burden for the improvement is falling on a district, not the property frontage. And as the district has put up $25,000 for the right-of-way, the trustees intend to keep expenses down, even if they have to have the work done under entirely different proceedings.

Growth Predicted

With the early completion of Maple avenue, east of Glendale avenue, the opening and improving of Stanley avenue, parallel with Wilson, east of Adams, the eastern residential section of the city seems due for a remarkable growth during the coming months.

Much Auto Traffic

How many motor cars pass through Glendale daily, may be estimated by the fact that a count, covering five minutes' time at Colorado and Brand boulevard the other afternoon revealed a car passing by every other second. That was an average, of course, but if that maintains ten hours daily, there is somewhere in the neighborhood of 1800 autos driven in and out of Glendale.

Goats Gets Goat

Bla, bla-a-a. Somebody's lost his goat.

In fact, that somebody is losing sleep because of the bla-blas.

A complaint was received at the police department last night that goats, hibernating about a home on East Chestnut street, make such a disturbance that people retiring early are kept awake. Which, of course, is unpleasant.

And the complainant further sets forth that the reason the self-asserting animals bla-bla so much is because they're hungry. He says the owner leaves home at 2 p. m. and doesn't return until late.

Rev. Oxman To Speak Before Brotherhood

Rev. G. Bromley Oxman, pastor of the Church of All Nations in Los Angeles, has been secured as the speaker for the meeting of the Methodist Brotherhood to be held at the Methodist church at 7 o'clock tomorrow night according to Arthur G. Lindley, president of the organization. As is customary, the members and friends each bring their own lunch and the committee in charge furnish coffee. Rev. Oxman's subject is to be "The Social Challenge of the Orient." He has traveled through the Orient and is declared well qualified to speak on a subject of this kind.

MAY DIVERT IMMIGRATION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17. — A scheme for diverting Japanese immigration from the Pacific coast to northwestern Siberia and Russia, thus ending the Japanese problem in the United States, was proposed to the senate foreign affairs committee today by John Hays Hammond. Hammond has been mentioned for secretary of commerce in the Harding cabinet. He is an authority on Russian affairs.

BALLOTS BEING SENT MEMBERS

PRIMARY ELECTION IS NOW UNDER WAY IN BEHALF GLENDALE C. OF C.

ENDS ON SATURDAY

BOARD OF DIRECTORS WILL BE SELECTED FROM THOSE 24 HIGHEST ON LIST

Ballots for the primary election for twelve directors to the Glendale Chamber of Commerce are being received through the mail by members today. The ballots must be voted and returned to the Chamber of Commerce not later than 7:30 p. m. of Saturday, February 19.

A complete list of the active members of the organization is sent out with the ballots and the voter is asked to select twelve names. When the ballots are returned, the twenty-four persons receiving the highest vote will be declared nominated and their names will be put on ballots and mailed to the membership and from these twenty-four the twelve directors will be chosen.

Two Things Are Asked

Richardson D. White, chairman of the primary election committee, has enclosed the following communication in the envelope containing the ballots:

"Dear Fellow Member.—It is doubtful if you ever voted in a more important Glendale election than the present one for the election of twelve directors for the new Chamber of Commerce. When it is over no one will have any right to complain, for the election will be conducted in a most democratic manner, the members themselves both nominating and electing.

"The twelve elected will, we think, consider it quite a compliment from the members of the Chamber and they will, no doubt, accept their posts with the purpose of rendering the best possible service.

"May we ask that you do two things in this election: First, be sure and return your ballot; second, study the list of members carefully,

This evening Professor and Mrs. Sternberg will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. Houdyshel of 308 North Orange street, who also learned of their being in this city through the article in Tuesday's paper.

ANNUAL REUNION PLAN OF ALUMNI

HIGH SCHOOL ORGANIZATION TO HOLD FIRST MEETING SINCE WORLD WAR

PROGRAM AND LUNCH

EDWARD SEAY, PRESIDENT OF ASSOCIATION, ASKS FOR GRADUATES' ADDRESSES

Edward Seay, class of 1916, president of the Glendale Union High School Alumni association, who is now a resident of Los Angeles, was in Glendale yesterday obtaining a roster of all graduates from the institution preparatory to calling an annual reunion, the first since America entered the World War.

It is Mr. Seay's plan to have a day set aside in June, at which time the former students will gather at the high school, enjoy a program, lunch and other features. He says the idea has met with favor among many of the alumni locally.

Addresses Are Wanted

On account of the rapid growth of the school and increasing alumni membership, the present officers, who have held office for three years feel that the time is opportune to establish the association on a firmer foundation.

It is the request of Mr. Seay that members—all graduates of Glendale High—forward their present addresses to Miss Jane Snyder, secretary, in care of the school.

Further announcements of the alumni reunion plans will appear later.

War Worker Guest In Dr. MacIntyre Home

Mrs. Nathan Rigdon of 224 West Doran street and Mrs. C. C. Cooper of 392 North Central avenue were guests of Dr. and Mrs. A. A. MacIntyre and daughter, Mrs. Bondaux, at tea yesterday afternoon. The special guest was Mrs. Elizabeth Markey of Chicago.

Mrs. Markey just returned a few months ago from France. She was one of the head workers in the service work in France during the war and after the armistice. She has been on most of the battlefields. After the war she visited every devastated village in France, working with the women and children.

Mrs. Markey spends a great deal of her time at Washington, D. C. At present she is staying at the Alexandria hotel for the winter. Mrs. Bondaux met Mrs. Markey in Paris, and it was through her that she became acquainted with Miss Mary Healey, who returned to the United States on the same boat as Mrs. Bondaux.

Five More Residences Are Near Completion

Among the many new residences which have been completed the first of the year in Glendale, five more were nearly ready for occupancy yesterday as was indicated by the installation of water and light meters by the Public Service Department. These places are: Guy G. Russell, 466 Milford; George Prickett, 401 West Harvard; Minnie Reigenback, 1514 South Gardena; W. J. Scott, 545½ North Kenwood; and W. G. Stanford, 1016 Virginia Place.

New residents or people moving into new locations include: E. E. Kent, 1018 East Harvard; M. J. Brewer, 103-A North Brand, Apt. 7; B. B. Atwood, 421 Burchett; L. C. Yeoman, 326 East Chestnut; C. E. Mayo, 328 West Arden, and W. H. Sill, 614 North Maryland.

Home Of Earl Shook Entered By Thieves

Burglars last night entered the Earl Shook home at 542 North Maryland avenue and stole a ladies' gold watch, two rings and other jewelry and cut glass, as well as several articles of clothing. The house was thoroughly ransacked and the robbers seemingly hand-picked the loot. They gained entrance by jimmying the rear door.

Mrs. Shook notified the police of the loss and the officers are investigating. There have been several similar thefts in the vicinity and all may be the work of some local sneak thief.

BANDITS IN ONE MILLION DOLLAR ROBBERY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

TOLEDO, O., Feb. 17.—Eleven sacks of mail, believed to contain between $400,000 and $1,000,000 were taken from three postal employees early today by five automobile bandits. The robbery took place at the Toledo post office. Postmaster Lathrop refused to place a definite estimate on the value of loot, but said it would be around $1,000,000. He asserted it would take several days to determine the exact amount.

Six of the sacks contained registered mail. In a few of them, it is reported, there were federal reserve bank notes. The bandits were armed with revolvers. The street where the robbery occurred was well lighted and inside the post office were fifteen employees who were unaware of the robbery.

SEARCH FOR SLAYERS OF SCHOOL TEACHERS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 17.—Cleveland detectives and posses of farmers searched the countryside today for two men in connection with the slaying of Miss Louise Wolf, 38, and Miss Mabel Foote, 24, school teachers. The women were beaten to death with a fence rail. The bodies were discovered today by school children on a road about three miles from Cleveland. They were teachers in the Parma Center high school and were last seen alive when they left the school shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Valuable diamond rings on their fingers were not taken. J. L. Foote, father of Miss Foote, said he believed tramps did the killing.

INTERESTING DISPLAY MADE OF FLAG AT MEETING IN SCHOOL AUDITORIUM

SHOW PATRIOTISM

PLEASING PROGRAM IS GIVEN BY P.-T. A. AND FEATURES PROVE ATTRACTIVE

The High School Parent-Teachers' association held its meeting yesterday afternoon in the school auditorium.

After the reading of the minutes, Mrs. H. W. Yarick, president, introduced Mrs. C. L. Peckham, patriotic chairman, who read some of the rules governing the use of the flag. Mrs. Peckham had secured a flag belonging to Holman Midcalf, which he had with him during the world war and which did service through nine battles. All then joined in giving the salute to the flag.

O. E. Von Oven led the audience in singing "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," "Massa's in the Cold Ground," and "The Star Spangled Banner."

Relates Experiences

Mrs. Eustace Moore was then introduced and read a short sketch of Betsy Ross and the flag and a poem called "Old Glory."

Thomas A. Austin, one of the soldiers from Thornycroft, related some interesting incidents in connection with his experiences during the world war.

The meeting closed by all joining in singing "America."

Coffee and cake were served in the cafeteria. Seventy-five parents, teachers and pupils of the high school enjoyed the meeting.

Health Officer Will Face Trial Today

Dr. J. E. Eckles, Glendale's city health officer, goes on trial in Justice of the Peace H. M. Miller's court at 2 p. m. today, for an alleged violation of the state public health act. He is charged with a dismeanor in taking a small-pox patient from Glendale to Los Angeles and there incarcerating him in the county pest house.

It seems that Glendale, being a municipality, should have a pest house of its own. But there has never been an epidemic to cause one to be built here. So when a tourist was taken sick last December within the city's bounds, something had to be done.

Dr. Eckles did what he thought best, for the man had no home, simply an automobile camping outfit, and too sick to care for himself.

And today the court will likely decide whether he was right or wrong—according to the law and evidence in the case—in picking up the poor unfortunate and hustling him off to the nearest pest house.

ALL EXPLAINED

Betty's grandmother had died in a distant town, and about the same time her little dog was poisoned and died. Betty said to her mother one morning, "Mamma isn't it strange I cried more for my little dog when it died, than I did when grandmother died?"

"No, that is not strange," replied her mother; you were with your little dog every day, and your grandmother, living away, you hardly knew her."

Betty replied: "Yes, and I didn't raise grandmother from a pup."

GIVES WIFE GLYCERINE MIXTURE

A retired merchant whose wife suffered for years from catarrh of the stomach finally gave her simple glycerine, buckthorn bark, etc., as mixed in Adler-i-ka. ONE bottle produced great results. Because Adler-i-ka acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel it removes all foul matter which poisoned stomach. Relieves ANY CASE sour stomach or gas on stomach. Often CURES constipation. PLAN CAMPAIGN

NINE CHURCHES UNITE FOR EVANGELISTIC MEETINGS STARTING APRIL 17

Beginning April 17 and continuing over May 8, nine churches, Baptist, Christian, Congregational, First Methodist, Central Methodist, West Glendale Methodist, Casa Verdugo Methodist, Glendale Presbyterian and Tropico Presbyterian, will unite in an evangelistic campaign under the leadership of Rev. John E. Brown. Rev. Otis E. Ironmonger, a musician, will act as chorus leader and soloist. A large chorus from all of the churches will sing every night.

Mr. Waterhouse will be on the grounds about a month before the meetings begin to superintend the building of the tabernacle and organize the cottage prayer meetings. Evangelist Brown is known in Glendale, as he conducted a series of meetings here some six years ago, assisted by Mr. Curry, popularly known as the Brown and Curry meetings. It is said by those who have the opportunity to know that Mr. Brown's preaching and methods are even better now than then. The location of the tabernacle will be decided upon later. It will be near the center of the city and large enough to accommodate big audiences.

Mistake Is Made In Giving Proper Credit

Recently The Evening News published a tribute to Abraham Lincoln and conveyed the impression it was the work of H. E. Loveless. The article was by Mrs. H. E. Loveless, who is, she says, in the habit of signing her name without prefixing the "Mrs." Hence the mistake.

"I have been summoned on juries and given other masculine honors, in days past, because I failed to put 'Mrs.' before my name," she stated. "I usually sign my name 'H. E. Loveless.' Therefore, I do not blame the paper for crediting my husband, summoned to his reward six years ago, with the Lincoln tribute. My husband, by the way, was among the first to answer Lincoln's call for volunteers."

Three automobiles were damaged in minor crashes reported today and last night to the police department. No one was injured.

Secures Agency For Torrens Title Work

The Glendale Realty company announces that it has secured the local agency for the California Torrens Title corporation of Los Angeles and is in a position to contract in Torrens Titles in Glendale property.

"This corporation furnishes to the public," said W. M. Winger, of the company, "certificates of title for real estate at a nominal cost and without the long delays and large expense in escrows and searching of records under the recording system.

"Torrens certificates are based on a judicial decree and are protected by the assurance fund held by the state treasurer. The public is able by calling at the Torrens Title department of the county recorder's office at Los Angeles to ascertain the exact condition of the title to a piece of property without delay as the certificates are always down to date."

NOT CANDIDATE

DR. A. L. BRYANT ANNOUNCES HE WILL NOT RUN FOR SCHOOL TRUSTEE

Dr. A. L. Bryant, member of the board of trustees for the Glendale union high school district, will not be a candidate for re-election, as the following communication from him to the editor of The Evening News states:

"Glendale, Calif., Feb. 16, 1921.

"Editor The Evening News—I desire to take this opportunity to announce that I will not be a candidate for re-election to the board of trustees of the Glendale union high school district.

"Appointed to fill the unexpired term of E. D. Goode, and having served on the board during three consecutive terms thereafter, I believe that I have fulfilled a pleasant duty to this school district.

"Through the past ten years my pleasant relationship with the respective members of the high school board has been a source of inspiration to me and it has been a satisfaction and joy to have been able to donate my service to the upbuilding of the Glendale union high school.

Good Schools Necessary

"Having fostered and been instrumental in the growth of the high school from the first square, yellow building at Broadway and Brand boulevard to the present substantial group of buildings, with an educational standing second to none in this state, and having the interest of this school deeply at heart leads me to express the hope that my successor whomsoever he may be, may have the vision and wisdom to sense the vital necessity of good and well equipped schools for this district.

"I appreciate the honor conferred on me and the confidence expressed in me by the citizens of this district for the past ten years and beg to extend my sincere thanks for the opportunity to have served them.

"Very truly yours,

"A. L. BRYANT, M. D."

RECALLS LINCOLN

REV. M. M. ESHELMAN RELATES INTERESTING EXPERIENCE OF CIVIL WAR DAYS

One looking upon the flowing white hair and beard, the sightless eyes and saintly countenance of Rev. M. M. Eshelman finds it hard to visualize him as a fiery young soldier of Civil War days whose martial spirit was so high and his patriotism so strong that, though he lost a thumb in the bloody battle of Antietam, he reinlisted when he recovered from the wound. And he was "in at the death" and had the pleasure of meeting President Lincoln three times.

One of these occasions had connected with it a most remarkable incident. It was in July, 1864, and Early and Breckinridge had made a dash into Maryland, sweeping around Washington in hopes of creating a diversion in favor of Lee who was then facing Grant's overwhelming forces not far from Richmond. But Grant merely detached the Fifth Corps and sent them in chase of the invaders. They ran them to earth about twenty miles north of Washington and for a time there was a fierce battle.

The president went out to see the fighting and was standing on the parapet of the earthworks beside a young lieutenant viewing the scene.

Lincoln Gives Command

Only a few hundred yards away was a large mansion owned by Montgomery Blair, then a member of Lincoln's cabinet. Rebel sharpshooters crept up and occupied this house, then opened fire on the Union forces, picking off several officers. Lincoln's tall, spare form was quite conspicuous, Mr. Eshelman said, and he was awaiting a chance to rush up and beg him to seek shelter, when the lieutenant standing by him was shot in the leg and fell. Instantly the president turned to the captain of Mr. Eshelman's battery and said:

"Fire into that house. Give it to them hot."

The artillerymen gladly obeyed and in a very short time the house was in flames and the sharpshooters slain.

And so the president had the peculiar duty of ordering the destruction of his own cabinet officer's handsome mansion.

The price of railway locomotives in 1920 was two and one-half times the price paid in pre-war years.

SEWERAGE PROBLEMS SUBJECT OF ADDRESS BY FRANK H. OLMSTED OF GLENDALE

attention for a few moments, as I speak on the subject of sewerage for Glendale. Of the many subjects which will sooner or later come before this body, it may be questioned whether any one will have greater importance to the city or be more basic in its relation to the welfare of the people than sewerage. It is not a particularly pleasing subject for the layman to face, but like some other unpleasant things, it is necessary, and I may say vital, to the prosperity and happiness and success of the community.

Committee of Twelve

"I will repeat what most of you know, that the city authorities of Glendale have named a committee of twelve citizens to co-operate with our firm, who have been named also by the city trustees as the consulting engineers on the subject and to make a thorough investigation from every point of view as to the best course to pursue for sewering Glendale. It is thought that the deliberations of this body may cover the greater part of twelve months. It is particularly satisfactory to us that Glendale is proceeding in so systematic a way to solve a somewhat difficult problem.

"I am tempted at this point to refer to the history of Los Angeles as a counter illustration of what we do not want to do.

"Los Angeles has grown very rapidly for about four decades, and, while much discussion in the past has been given to the subject of the best sewage disposal for the city, it has generally happened that the plans adopted and the money voted have been the result of very short political campaigns and never accompanied by appropriations for testing out comparative treatment processes. The result has been that almost every move in a $2,000,000 or $3,000,000 expenditure has been a mistake. To be specific, when Fred Eaton was city engineer, in 1887, he proposed, with the approval of Rudolph Herring, a prominent engineer, a gravity sewer into the ocean at Playa del Rey. There was considerable tunnel work necessary in this line so located, and the expense, as I remember it, ran about $550,000. The people either once or twice, voted down the proposition, and about the year 1893, when Henry Dockweiler was city engineer, a compromise line with two long, inverted syphons where the sewage was under pressure, with a bond issue of about $350,000, was carried, and the works built.

Deterioration Commences

"Right from the first there commenced to be a deterioration of the structure below these inverted syphons due to the fact that sulphurated hydrogen was engendered by the pressure under which the sewage for seven miles had been held in its passage through the two syphons, and the cement work, brick work, metal rungs to the manholes, all commenced to disintegrate and go to pieces. This syphon line had the secondary disadvantage of not providing gravity outlet to the Adams street section in the southwest portion of the city, and in consequence retarded the growth of that section for at least a period of ten years.

Bond Issue Is Voted

"Finally it became evident that something in the way of a radical improvement of the Los Angeles outfall sewer must be secured, and when Harry Stafford was city engineer, in 1902, a further bond issue of $1,000,000 was authorized and affirmatively voted for new works. We were called in after the bonds were voted as consulting engineers on Mr. Stafford's plans, with a tentative employment as such on construction, if we could agree with Mr. Stafford.

"The Stafford plan consisted of a comparatively small bore cylinder directly into the ocean, carried well out into the sea, with cast iron discharge pipes and without any intermediate treatment whatsoever.

"At that time the total flow of sewage of Los Angeles amounted to about eighteen or twenty cubic feet per second, say 1000 miners' inches. The total water supply during the dry time of the year, and this was before the time of any discussion of Owen's river aqueduct, was sometimes as low as fifty cubic feet per second, or 2500 miner's inches. We objected, in Mr. Stafford's plans, to two things: First, the increasing pollution of the beach front below Hyperion, where the city's crude sewage was discharged; and, second, to the waste of 1000 miner's inches of irrigation water that was particularly needed in the stretch of irrigable lands between Inglewood and Redondo. We found that there was some 15,000 or 20,000 acres of land without water, which would have been willing by their owners to be signed up for a period of years for the Los Angeles sewage water on the one condition that it would be free from solids and objectionable floating matter.

Withdraw From Employment

"We withdrew from the employment after receiving a $1000 retainer fee, because we felt that the small bore, steep graded, pipe cylinder designed by Mr. Stafford was entirely the wrong principle, that a larger bore, flatter grade, tank treated plan, would enable the city to discharge by gravity whatever water was needed for irrigation in the right condition, and that there would be some revenue in this way and that the surplus could be handled by the then existing original sewer. As an indication that we were somewhat right in the position we took, the state board of health for the past ten years, have strenuously objected and gone as far as their legal authority would warrant, in insisting upon some adequate treatment for the sewage before being discharged crude into the ocean.

"Now, in answer to this imperative demand of the state board of health, and in answer to the continued remonstrances of the beach cities, Los Angeles proposes a bond issue of $12,850,000, and while there is no particular detail criticism of this plan, when considered by itself, as a firm we do not feel that the matter has had serious consideration along any other line than the one proposed. The city of Los Angeles at the present moment has only a bonding ability for non-revenue producing utilities of about $15,000,000. It can be seen, of course, that this bond issue virtually consumes the entire bonding ability of the city for this character of works.

Regarding Glendale

"For two reasons, then, the subject should be considered. First, because so many mistakes have been made in the past, and unnecessary expenditures made; and second, because the city is spending virtually its entire bonding ability along a line which, if any plan for conserving the fertilizing elements in the sewage, or utilizing the water for irrigation, is found practicable, the expenditure has been made in such a way as to render it of no salvage value. It is of satisfaction to us to know that here in Glendale, with a problem smaller, it is true, but perhaps equally difficult, we are systematically taking it up for study and investigation with the assurance that finally we will act intelligently and not ask for a bond issue not warranted as to size or character.

"The history of Los Angeles and Glendale in creating good, sanitary conditions is not particularly different from that of most progressive, growing towns.

"In the earlier years, 1892-1893-1894, I was an engineer employed by the sanitary district of Chicago in initiating, designing and executing the Chicago drainage canal, which afforded immediate relief to the very difficult sewer situation in that city. The annual death rate from zymotic diseases in Chicago previous to the installation of the Chicago drainage canal was ninety in every 100,000. Immediately after the construction of the works, the percentage dropped to eighteen per 100,000. Taking into account the hundreds of thousands of people residing in Chicago, it can be readily seen how much worse than the Iroquois theatre fire or the San Francisco earthquake was this annual loss of life from delayed sewer improvements for Chicago.

Tendency to Group

"For many years the tendency of American life has been to emphasize the growth of cities at the expense of the country districts. De Toquerville who visited America in the first half of the nineteenth century, commenting on this tendency of the American people to group themselves in trade centers, predicted that the great test of American institutions would come when over 50 per cent of the total population was gathered in cities. We have virtually reached that percentage, but I think at the present time there is no particular fear as expressed by De Toquerville, because the people are awake to the necessity of solving this problem rightly, but with all the advantages, and they are many, which can be placed to the credit of municipal life, there are some penalties, and among these is the responsibility of keeping the cities morally and physically clean. Neither of these things are easy to do, as perhaps T. W. Watson, our city manager, could tell us, but by everlastingly keeping after it we can be assured of good results.

"We are so constantly surrounded by the appliances of civilization that at times we are inclined to forget how far we have departed from the life of our ancestors. In a late trip to Mexico I visited the hut of Yaqui Indians where the wife was weaving a woolen blanket. Between them they had sheared the sheep which they owned, carded the wool, made the yarn, colored it and woven the blanket. The blanket was not of particularly fine workmanship, but every thread of it was good wool—a good heavy blanket, which I bought for six Mexican dollars, or $3 in our money. The family lived on the edge of a perennial river where the children caught fish. The family raised a little corn, melons and beans, and I presume the man of the place occasionally brought in a deer. The domestic water used by the family was brought in an holla from the flowing river and there were absolutely no sanitary appliances in the establishment, nor were they, probably, particularly needed. His nearest neighbor was 1000 feet or more away, who in turn was living about the same kind of a life. The labor on the particular blanket which I have referred to, probably amounted to at least some weeks' work.

Great Advance Made

"I am speaking of this illustration to bring home somewhat directly the thought that we have advanced here in Glendale and elsewhere in this country a long, long road from that point, and with it have come many appliances and advantages, many obligations and responsibilities, among these, as I said before, the necessity of clean living, morally and physically.

"Modern life is so complicated that it is not easy to say that certain things should be done because it pays to do them, and certain other things should be done because they are right, for in the final analysis it generally happens that what it is right to do, always in the end has paid to do. If in the working out of modern life, the old statement that all men are created equal does not appear at first glance to be quite so, we can be assured that it is so far as certain fundamentals are concerned. Among these fundamentals would be the right of every man in the community to pure air, good water, giving his children the basis of a good education, and his liberty in so far as it did not interfere with the laws of the land, or the liberty of others. It was Abraham Lincoln I believe, who said it was the duty of governments to make it as easy as possible for men to do right, and as difficult as possible for men to do wrong, and it certainly seems to me that in the matter you have up for consideration today it is your privilege and duty to do all that can be rightly done here in Glendale to give the people good sanitary surroundings. Man, himself is the principal cause of the defilement of his surroundings, his presence brings pollution to earth, air and water. Nature provides a remedy only to a limited extent. In country districts no particular responsibility can attach to the individual householder beyond that of the welfare of his own family, and under these circumstances, as I said before, nature is equal to the task, ordinarily meeting requirements, but in communities where people are grouped the problem becomes at once somewhat complex, and unless efficient measures for meeting these artificial conditions are inaugurated there is generally a very heavy penalty to pay. For instance: At Danzig, in Germany, from 1865 to 1869 before any sanitary measures were taken, there were 108 deaths annually per 100,000 from enteric fever. From 1871 to 1875 after the introduction of water supply, the deaths dropped to ninety from this cause per 100,000, and from 1876 to 1880 after the introduction of sewerage, the annual death rate dropped to eighteen per 100,000 from this cause.

No Exceptions to Rule

"England probably has carried out sewerage works with greater thoroughness than almost any other country, we have been able to observe how direct a relation the installation of sewers in a community bears to the death rate, and I would like somewhat to emphasize this point that in considering the installation of a sewer system the death rate in Glendale, as in every other city on the earth, will unquestionably improve. There are no exceptions to this rule. It is invariable and final.

It is somewhat difficult for me to give you the information today that you would like to have with reference to our local situation here in Glendale. We have started systematically to find out the right thing to do, and then if you will get behind us, and support us to do it, we believe in three years it can be accomplished. The present cost of maintaining the cesspools in Glendale amounts to not less than $30,000 a year, or capitalized the sum of $545,000. This is on the basis of cesspools costing $45, and having a life of six years. This annual charge will increase year by year, and the area polluted correspondingly enlarge. Speaking either for the immediate present or for the future there is no economy in the continuance of the cesspool system.

Counting on Help

"I cannot tell you today how Glendale is to dispose of its sewage waters, but I can tell you this, that when the sessions of the commission of twelve members close and they make their report there will have been found the right solution, and then we are counting on you to help in carrying whatever bond issue may be necessary to carry out the works.

"Those of us who have lived for years in southern California, and who have seen the wonderful growth of the cities of the southwest can not readily even with the past development known to us conceive of what the future will bring forth in the way of Los Angeles growth. E. H. Harriman said before he died that in his opinion Los Angeles would finally become the largest city on the American continent, and probably in the world. This prediction seemed almost fanciful at the time it was made, but it does not seem quite so improbable now, and in another twenty years it may be generally believed. With this thought in mind let us for a moment attempt to visualize the Glendale of the future. The curve of growth in Los Angeles city proper not taking into account any further annexations will approach three million people in 1960, and as there are many young people in Glendale who will be here then it will not be out of place to take that year for our vision.

"The San Fernando Road will be a business section from one end to the other. The foothills of Glendale will be occupied by magnificent homes and large estates. The valley lands will be congested areas of human life. There is only one southern California, and the percentage of land subject to intense settlement of the total area is so small that we can be assured of this final density of population.

"There will be very few unoccupied areas; land will be valuable and taxes high. It has been just ten years since the towns of Van Nuys and Owensmouth were laid out, and since the whole of the San Fernando valley was a barley field. Now it partakes largely of metropolitan characteristics. Glendale at that time will in all probability be a borough of Greater Los Angeles with its own governing body as at present. This Chamber of Commerce if it functions as we all hope it will, will be a mighty power for good and for advancing every thing in the way of public improvements that tends to add to the happiness and welfare of the people. Perhaps this vision if we can only slightly glimpse it will help us to be patient, and to hold fast, and to stay put during the intervening years when discouraging reactions may take place as they have always taken place since man first became strong through overcoming difficulties.

In Other Municipalities

"We are not the only ones who are having municipal problems hard to solve. Los Angeles, Burbank, Eagle Rock; we are surrounded by other cities each with its own burden, and each with difficulty meeting the financial burden which these financial problems carry.

"There can be perfect confidence in all our minds that the Glendale of the future will be the greatest success, for we are in the middle of the current that is sweeping us on to the greatest civilization center of all the ages. No city of the past had the advantages we possess. Tyre and Sidon, Carthage, Rome, Athens, Naples had no better climate, nor surrounding and tributary territory than we have, while their world, and its commerce was that of a province compared with the vast empire of trade that stretches out from this the largest city on the west coast of the American continent across the broad Pacific whose perifery includes ninety per cent of the undeveloped lands of the earth.

"As the consulting engineers of the city of Glendale we wish to thank you for the privilege of having the opportunity to present in this very preliminary way the sewer system for your attention. Again I thank you."

Dr. John R. Mohler, chief of the bureau of animal industry, has issued a statement in which he declares that owing to the readiness with which the virus is carried in the bodies of animals, in hides and other live stock products, the United States is dangerously exposed to invasion by foreign animal diseases now very prevalent in Europe and South America.

Nationalization of coal, fuel oil and water power lands has been advocated by the secretary of the navy.

Great Future Is Predicted For Glendale And Entire Valley By Speaker At Luncheon

Let us for a moment attempt to visualize the Glendale of the future. The curve of growth in Los Angeles city proper not taking into account any further annexations will approach three million people in 1960, and as there are many young people now living in Glendale who will be here then it will not be out of place to take that year for our vision. The San Fernando Road will be a business section from one end to the other. The foothills of Glendale will be occupied by magnificent homes and large estates. The valley lands will be congested areas of human life—From address by Frank H. Olmsted before Glendale Chamber of Commerce.

SCHOOL DEBATE

MISS MONA GARDNER COACHES GLENDALE HIGH TEAM FOR MEET ON MARCH 17

With State Senator J. A. Bishop of San Diego county introducing a bill in the present legislature, providing for a California State Constabulary, to equal the far-famed Texas Rangers, and to be patterned after similar organizations in several eastern states, as well as the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, students at Glendale Union high school are taking more than a little interest in the subject of their next debate. It is:

"Resolved, that California should establish a State Constabulary to enforce the criminal code."

Members of the debating classes and others of the school's orators are now preparing for the try-outs which will be held soon, as the local team will meet the University of Southern California High school on March 17 in the latter's auditorium, with Glendale upholding the affirmative.

Strange to say, there is a wealth of material on the affirmative side of the question, while the negative will have to depend principally on a defense of the present police system as sufficient to cope with crime.

Miss Mona Gardner is the debating coach.

AIDING CRIPPLES

FOUR GLENDALE MEN INSPECT INSTITUTION WHERE CARE IS GIVEN CHILDREN

Professor George U. Moyse, Professor Richardson D. White, Rev. C. M. Calderwood and Rev. W. E. Edmonds spent Tuesday afternoon visiting the Orthopaedic school of Los Angeles, located on Palm Drive, running north from West Adams between Hope and Flower.

They state that wonderful work is being done in the treatment of crippled children, who come from all parts of Los Angeles county and other parts of the state. Four hundred and thirty-five children are now under active treatment, one hundred and forty have been discharged as cured. Three thousand are the average yearly treatments during the past four years. Dr. C. L. Lowman is the chief of staff, and a dozen other medical men are associated with him. This group of medical specialists, it is understood, are donating their time, energies and money for the good of needy children, many of whose parents are unable to pay for the treatment.

Equipment Is Required

To accommodate the increased demands, a new building is now under construction to cost $100,000; the entire amount has been raised. The need now is for $50,000 to purchase equipment.

The Los Angeles Board of Education has endorsed the work, also the County Medical society, Juvenile Protective association, Social Service commission, various hospitals, the Friday Morning club, Woman's University club, and many other organizations.

The Glendale Ministerial association has not only endorsed the movement, but has appointed a standing committee to co-operate in every possible way. The committee is C. A. Cole, C. M. Calderwood and W. E. Edmonds.

W. E. McVay of the Los Angeles Guaranty Trust & Savings bank is the treasurer. All funds sent to him for this work will be thankfully acknowledged, the local committee states.

FORMAL OPENING

H. S. WEBB & COMPANY ADDS TWO DEPARTMENTS; PUBLIC INVITED TO INSPECT

Visualization is the act or power of forming visual images or mental representations of objects not present to the sense. A person having the power to visualize is able to form a mental image or picture of something not present before the eye at the time.

H. S. Webb, owner of Glendale's big store, known as the city's "style center," has, apparently, the power to visualize. About six years ago he left Chicago and started on a search—a search up and down the western coast for a town that, to him, had a future. His hunt took him from Old Mexico to Vancouver. Southern California appealed strongly to him. A number of towns in the southland "looked good." He studied them. He visualized. He took options on several stores. Then—

Comes Here Four Years Ago

About four years ago H. S. Webb located in Glendale, started in the mercantile business, and began to "hustle." But all the time he visualized. He pictured Glendale growing rapidly. He pictured a contented, prosperous people. He saw success based on three things—good merchandise, correct prices and service that serves. That was four years ago. Today—

H. S. Webb, in relating his visualization to a reporter for The Evening News, pointed to the picture in concrete form—an institution built up in rivalry with one of the greatest shopping centers in the country but a few miles away, a $15,000 home in "the city of homes," and his formal announcement in The Evening News of the opening of two complete stores added to the H. S. Webb & Company establishment, a ladies' ready-to-wear department and the men's shop.

People Show Loyalty

"But what appeals to me more," said Mr. Webb today, "is the fact that it is to the loyalty of the people of Glendale and vicinity that I owe this accomplishment. The success of the store is due, not so much to me, but to the people themselves and to my 'family' of employes. It was the law of right and justice that won the world war—coupled with co-operation. It was right and justice—with co-operation—that enabled our store to grow with Glendale.

"Success is due, in a great measure, to the ability to think right—then do right. We are in competition with one of the greatest mercantile centers of the country. We have met that competition successfully and will continue to do so with our policy of good merchandise, correct prices and service. One may be pardoned for saying that we are proud of our store, our stock and the fact that we are adding a ladies' ready-to-wear department and the men's shop, the latter a distinctive store for men with a separate entrance and efficient men in charge of the de luxe merchandise. But proud as we are of the growth of the institution, we pause to pay tribute to the people who have recognized our policy and who have responded with their support. It is to them that we owe the success that has come.

Loyalty of Employes

"The employes, too, have helped make the institution what it is today. We have a loyal 'family.' We hold meetings and exchange ideas. This is not a 'one-man' business. It is, I take pride in stating, a compact organization of loyalty striving to meet the wishes of the people. H. S. Webb & Company is of the people and for the people. We are here to serve and, it gratifies me to say, the people believe in us. That confidence never has and never will be abused."

Mr. Webb, in order to secure a separate shop for his men's merchandise, paid a bonus for the store room adjoining his establishment. Expensive fittings were secured and the windows and interior "dressed up" in a most pleasing and attractive manner. The whole institution has been departmentized, the goods throughout harmoniously arranged and now, on the eve of Mr. Webb's fourth anniversary of business in Glendale, he and his employes invites the public to come as guests and inspect the enlarged establishment.

For Betterment of City

Although busy with the growth of the store, Mr. Webb has taken time to enter into civic activities of Glendale for the betterment of the community and when the recent Chamber of Commerce membership drive was under way he signed not for one member but four in the new organization.

The formal opening of the enlarged establishment will continue through Saturday and Mr. Webb joins with his employes in issuing an invitation to the public to inspect the fashions for spring now on display.

TAX HITS THEM

NO ALLOWANCE IS MADE FOR SILK STOCKINGS; DEDUCT FOR POWDER, ROUGE

ALBANY, N. Y.—The hard working chorus girl who rolls to work each day in her own limousine will not be allowed to deduct her means of transportation as "legitimate expenses" in making out her income tax statement.

Neither are the silk stockings nor lovely "pretties" with which she charms the t. b. m. each night allowable on the expense side of her income tax blank, according to Miss Mary A. McGinn, of the New York state income tax bureau, who is busy at this time of year answering queries on "What don't I have to pay?"

Gas and oil which she buys for her limousine, likewise, are not chargeable to the business side of her occupation, but the powder and rouge which cover her dainty face are recognized by the state government as a necessity for her job.

Large Sums Are Spent

The amount spent by the average popular cinema star or actress for gowns yearly, Miss McGinn declares, would buy one of the costliest homes in Riverside Drive, and leave enough surplus to buy a ticket to a Broadway show from a ticket speculator.

"The bureau draws the line against silk stockings," said Miss McGinn. "Such articles of wardrobe are considered capital investments. The bureau is now investigating the return of a famous screen artist, who put in as expenses in her return an item of $1000 for silk stockings purchased during 1919. She claimed they were worn wholly in studios during the year in connection with her work.

"Another screen star claimed almost $60,000 as expenses for costumes during 1919, and also the cost of operation of her automobile, which she used in riding to and from the picture studio, where she was employed."

Bachelors looking for loving wives with monetary attractions should communicate with the income tax bureau. A large percentage of those who paid large taxes in New York City are said to be very wealthy.

Lettuce Is Used For Making Face Powder

Large quantities of dehydrated California lettuce is being shipped to a Seattle firm daily by the Burbank Canning company, to be made into face powder.

Captain H. [illegible] Insley says green lettuce contains about nineteen parts water to about one part of solids. The dehydrating process reduces its water content to about ten per cent. The lettuce is declared to be desirable as a base for face powder because of the opiates it contains.

Vast quantities of Canadian wheat are moving from Vancouver to Europe through the Panama Canal.

LET'S GO

The guests were leaving. Their Rolls-Ruff stood at the curb. The air was cold and damp. The host and his family walked down to the gate with them, shivering.

The chief guest toyed with the crank a few minutes and then there was a roar and an evolution of smoke.

"Well, good-bye," said the hostess, "and give my regards to George and the rest."

"Enjoyed ourselves immensely," admitted tersely the important one behind the wheel.

"Good-bye, all of you."

"Goodbye," said the guests, with a wave of the hand.

And then the motor stalled.

He organized the Whist club at Lisbon, Ohio, in 1900 that has been in continuous existence for nearly twenty-one years.

No Place for Learners

This tournament is not for beginners; it is for old-time "whisters" and present-day auction players. The club that is forming will be known as the Rendezvous Men and Women's Whist club.

Secretary Houghton has been in communication for the last two months with officers of the American Whist league, with result that the first open tournament will be played on Friday and Saturday, February 18 and 19.

REGISTRATIONS

SOME FIGURES ARE GIVEN ON NUMBER OF TRUCKS AND AUTOS IN COUNTRY

There are now 8,887,572 automobiles and trucks registered in the United States, according to figures for January 1, 1921, gathered by Automotive Industries. This is an increase of 1,291,096 over the previous year, a gain of slightly over 17 per cent.

There is now one motor vehicle for every 12.21 persons in the country, so that every man, woman and child in the United States could now go for a motor ride at the same time if the greatest capacity of both cars and trucks were fully utilized.

Automobile owners have paid over $75,000,000 in fees to the various state registration offices, a sum in excess of last year's contribution by more than $10,000,000.

Lead Taken by New York

New York again leads in the number of cars and trucks registered with a total of 651,796. Ohio is next with 616,800, followed by Pennsylvania with 570,164. California, which last year was in third place, has dropped behind Pennsylvania, the total of the Golden state for 1920 being 568,892.

West Virginia has made the largest gain, having 57 per cent more vehicles than during 1919, while the largest actual increase is recorded for Ohio, the net gain being 105,769.

In South Dakota there is one vehicle for every 5.24 persons, while the number of persons per vehicle in Iowa is 5.49, and in Nebraska 5.73. The figure for New York is 15.78.

Riverside County Is Chief Honey Producer

RIVERSIDE, Feb. 17—Riverside county produces more honey than any other county in southern California, which is the chief honey producing section in the United States, according to statistics given out here recently.

During 1920 the total honey yield of this county was 820 tons, which sold at $400 a ton, making the entire yield worth $328,000. The 40,000 colonies in Riverside county are valued at $15 each or $600,000.

WAY TO RAISE WRECKS

Still another method is being tried for raising wrecks from great depths. The latest thing in this work is hypodermic salvage. It is found that in vessels loaded with bags of rice, grain and malt it is possible to give them, so to speak, a hypodermic injection of compressed air. A sufficient quantity of this air is retained in the mass to make it bouyant. It is then possible to shift the grain from one point to another without its losing its quality. The compressed air is forced into the grain by means of a "needle" formed by a length of brass pipe pointed at the end so that it can be jabbed deeply into the packages. Every bag, so to speak, becomes a bubble. By shifting the bags about in the hold, the lifting power can be concentrated and exerted at the desired point.

NEW STAR DISCUSSED

Astronomers have discovered a new star which is arousing unusual interest. It is known as the Nova Sagitarii star or "novae." Stars of this kind burst suddenly into flame and then fade away until they are invisible to the eye. Sometimes they can be still seen by powerful telescopes, while again they disappear entirely. During the past 400 years twenty-four such stars have been discovered. Astronomers have many theories to account for the sudden disappearance of such stars, but they still remain a mystery. Some of them appear regularly at intervals of centuries. There have been more of them in the past thirty years, but this is explained by the fact that more powerful telescopes are in use and more astronomers are constantly on the lookout for them.

"That means a good chance. He can go through it looking for errors."
